Public Awareness of Possibly Connected Drug Overdoses

The San Diego Police Department is in the process of investigating approximately 10 cases of drug overdoses from a street drug known as "Spice." All of the cases have been reported this afternoon within a short period of time in downtown San Diego. So far we have five adults and five juveniles who have suffered mild to serious symptoms after smoking the drug. The information we have is the Spice has been sold on the streets of downtown in a black package with blue dragons on the side.

The San Diego Police Department is in the process of tracking down all of the victims and witnesses to these cases to gather additional information. In the meantime, we want the public to be aware of the situation in the event anyone else has purchased this street drug in the downtown area.

As more information comes available we will provide it to you.
